

Written Policy on Behaviour Principles

The Green Room School is committed to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children and young people and expects all staff and volunteers to share this commitment.

If people are good only because they fear punishment, and hope for reward, then we are a sorry lot indeed - Einstein

This written Policy on Behaviour Principles within The Green Room has been drafted with due regard given to the 'Education and Inspections Act' (2006) and the Education Regulations on Independent School Standards for England (2010).

Purpose

The Green Room School's Behaviour Policy was considered closely during the drafting of this document. This policy is intended to reflect the ethos of The Green Room with regards to behaviour, it is also intended to aid staff in their understanding and application of behaviour principles. These principles are backed by the Trustees of Everyday Arts Ltd. i.e. the staff of The Green Room School have the full support of the Everyday Arts Ltd. Trustees.

Principles

- Good behaviour is expected, no exceptions. The Green Room School is the last resort for the vast majority of its pupils and that fact feeds said expectation. If you want to be at either establishment - behave perfectly, no exceptions.
- All guidelines relating to behaviour are in place in order to build the character and substance required to be a good person inside of school, outside of school and for the rest of the pupils' lives.
- The Green Room's pupil-drafted school rules are laid out in the School Behaviour Policy, which has been drafted with consideration of this Written Statement. They are also explained to every pupil and are displayed on every classroom wall. This allows consistent application.
- Negative behaviour is quashed immediately.
- Discrimination in any capacity (race, gender, ability etc.) is simply not tolerated.(See anti-bullying policy)
- The Green Room's sanctions with regard to behaviour are laid out in the Behaviour Policy and Discipline and Exclusion policy and are understood by all staff and pupils.
- Safety and a sense of safety are paramount and are directly related to behaviour.
- Any illegal activity will result in the Police being contacted and potential expulsion.
- Through the application of these Behaviour Principles every pupil comes to know, without doubt, that The Green Room School is considered a safe place. Any behaviour that threatens that safety is not tolerated.
